Must A Person Do Something In Order To Be Saved?

During the 1938 Hardemen-Bogard debate, Mr. Ben Bogard, A Missionary Baptist preacher, made this statement: “I am going to maintain that there is no act at all that any man in the Old Testament time or the New ever had to perform in order to be saved. Salvation is received by faith, and faith is the only thing you can do without doing anything” (p.93). We often hear similar sentiments expressed today. What about it?

Mr. Bogard’s teaching about salvation is contradictory in two ways. First, it is self-contradictory. He said that faith is the only thing you can “Do” without “Doing Anything”. So, which is it? Is faith counted as “doing” or “not doing”? Second, Mr. Bogard’s teaching contradicts the Bible when he says that there is nothing a person must do in order to be saved. In response to the inquiry, “What must I do to be saved,” God’s messengers did not say, “There is nothing that you can or must do.” No, they commanded the inquirer to believe (Acts 16:30-31). Thus, believing was something that a person must do. In Acts 2:38 we read another response to the question of what one must do. What is it? To repent and be baptized for the remission of sins. What are both of those? Actions that man must take. They are required conditions of obtaining God’s favor.

If the Lord Jesus said that one must “do” the Father’s will in order to enter the kingdom of heaven (Matthew 7:21), should we not be willing to take His word for it? If God set up a scheme for our salvation that includes man’s faithful adherence to His word, doing, or obeying, then let us humbly accept it. ~Roger Campbell

Words of Encouragement

I met God in the morning when my day was at it's best, and His Presence came like sunrise, like a glory in my breast.

All day long the Presence lingered, all day long He stayed with me, and we sailed in perfect calmness over a very troubled sea.

Other ships were blown and battered, other ships were sore distressed, but the winds that drove them brought us peace and rest.

When I thought of other mornings, with a keen remorse of mind, when I too had lossed the moorings, with the Presence left behind.

So I think I know the secret, learned from many troubled way. You must seek Him in the morning if you want Him through the day.
