Was That Really A Good Sermon?

Every minister has heard it. Nearly everyone has said it. It doesn't matter if you fell asleep during the sermon or could even remember the topic. All that matters is saying the affirming phrase, "that was a good sermon this morning!"

But what qualifies a sermon as good? Abraham Lincoln once listened to a notable minister of his time and was asked his opinion of the sermon.

"Well," Lincoln responded, "it was brilliantly conceived, biblical, relevant, and well presented."

"So, it was a great sermon?"

"No," Lincoln replied. "It failed. It failed because Dr. Gurley did not ask us to do something great."

Jesus was of the same belief. Speaking for the sake of speaking is not enough to be qualified as a "good sermon." Slick rhetorical gymnastics and trendy pop-culture references aren't enough. When we judge a sermon, we must run it through a particular curriculum:

Was it true? Was it heartfelt? Was it equipping?

Do the speaker a favor. If his sermon doesn't meet this curriculum, tell him. We owe God's Word that much.
