Words To Ponder.....

"And we know that all things work together for good to them that love God, to them who are the called according to his purpose" (Rom 8:28).

Sometimes you just must read a passage again to make sure what you read is actually what the passage says. This passage DOES NOT say that "all things are good." The fact of the matter is everyone experiences bad, evil, and unfortunate events. These things are certainly not "good."

God does not actively "will" all of life's circumstances; however, in His sovereignty and divine wisdom, somehow, He is able to work out life circumstances as beneficial for those who demonstrate, through obedience, their love for Him (Deut 29:29). Remember, our ULTIMATE good heaven (Rom 8:18).

Only at the consummation of all things will we realize that everything we experienced here was for our good.

Brethren,

The first quarter here in Karns has gotten off to an interesting start. The very first day of school was a snow day. There have been several days where we have engaged in distance learning due to snow and covid. Although this presents its own set of challenges, we are still able to learn God's word. There was a men's retreat at the beginning of the quarter in Pigeon Forge. It was a great experience. The elders at Karns have a great vision for the church here. It was encouraging to attend. It made the beginning of the school year all that much better. My classes are Christian Ethics, Poetical Books, Hebrews, John and Prophets 2. It is a lot of hard work, but I truly love being here. The environment is unique in that the level of research is deeper than what one would expect in most settings. I appreciate your moral and financial support. For without you I would not be here.

In Christ,
Brad Kilgore
