Our homes are a mirror on which our personalities and passions are reflected. Even though our homes may be small and nothing fancy, it is our domain. The home is Yours. We take pride and ownership in our castles. Inside I am head of my household like a king, at least until Susan tells me what I need to get done.

Our lives, like our homes, reflects on us and who we are. Your life will reflect your passions and the treasures of your heart. Does it reflect Christ? When was the last time you decluttered your life, or cleaned up the spider webs and dust that has gathered over time? In our homes, we have to ensure it is cleaned each and every week or it becomes dirty.

Spiritually the task of keeping our lives picked up can be even more daunting. There is always cleaning, fixing, changing and maintaining to be done. In Psalm 51, David had a mess in his life that needed cleaning. He knew he had problems that needed attention immediately, therefore he asked God in v. 10 to "Create in me a clean heart, O God and renew a steadfast spirit within me". Does God need to create in you a clean heart to get your life in proper order?

Have you noticed someone missing from the worship service? Have you checked on them? Let's all be making an effort to check on those that we notice missing. Send them a card, give them a call, send a text message or drop by for a visit.
