“Wherefore, my beloved brethren, let every man be swift to hear, slow to speak, slow to wrath:” (James 1:19).

Some people love to talk, many of them just love to hear their own voice. When learning to write technically, one thing we are taught is to say what you need to say in as few words as possible. Instead of convoluted and empty speech, we should be as direct and concise as possible.

People who love to talk will often reveal how foolish they are and figure that “much speaking” will garner the attention of many (Eccl 5:2-3; Mt 6:7). Vain and idle (useless, purposeless) words are not well viewed by the Lord (Mt 12:36). The remedy to this is less talking and more listening (Prov 18:2; 29:11)!
